We want to build a central platform for patient-relevant as well as professional health issues with a moderated bulletin board for discussions and personal stories and narrations. Users will have the chance to ask questions and provide answers and support for other users. The platform offers research modules, with and without moderation. Users will be able to publish videos, images and text posts as well as participate in polls. They can also subscribe to topics that interest them.

The platform will also provide additional services on health care, such as a calendar widget for doctor's appointments.

There is a lot of potential for further expansion of the services, for example a rental calendar for medical equipment with a return station for products that are no longer in use included, or, a phase IV platform, where experiences and observations with pharmaceutical products or devices could be shared.

Our diverse team is evenly balanced and provides all the essential know how required for this project. Furthermore, every team member has an international network that allows him to transport the idea and experience with the FIWARE-environment across the border.
